

READERS' TRAVEL AWARDS 2021 WINNERS INSIDE

Condé Nast Traveller

THE LASTWORD IN TRAVEL
NOV-DEC-JAN 2021-22 | ₹200

INDIAN EDITION

100
AMAZING PEOPLE ON WHY THEIR HOME COUNTRY SHOULD BE YOUR NEXT DESTINATION

Bengaluru-based poet and writer
Joshua Muiwa
at the Malleswaram
flower market

The World made local

plus REIMAGINING IBIZA ★ GOA, BUT DIFFERENT ★ SKIING IN FRANCE ★ NEW IN THE MALDIVES

30 BEST PLACES
TO VISIT IN 2022,
AS PICKED
BY CNT EDITORS

From Bhimal to Bhutan, Sikkim to Seoul, these are the most exciting places to be this year

BALEARIC ISLANDS, SPAIN

Rugged landscapes, a laidback lifestyle, and Ibiza's infamous party scene have long drawn travellers to the sun-bleached shores of the Balearic Islands. Over the past year, though, the archipelago off the east coast of mainland Spain has refocused its ambitions toward art. Last summer's opening of Hauser & Wirth Menorca (hauserwirth.com)—a new arts centre and the gallery's latest international outpost—was just the starting point.

Located on the historic Illa del Rei in Manorca's Mahón harbor, the site has taken over an 18th-century naval hospital and outlying buildings. With eight galleries, a restaurant, shop, garden, and an outdoor sculpture trail with works by Frank West, Louise Bourgeois, and Eduardo Chillida, it puts the sleepy Balearic island on the international art map with big-name exhibitions, educational activities, and sustainable initiatives. Art and design stand out at the archipelago's new hospitality offerings, too.

In Mallorca, Can Ferrereta (hotelcanferrereta.com), a boutique hotel housed in a restored 17th-century building, features a Maison Assouline-curated library and works by local and Spanish artists—Joan Miró, Riera i Aragó, Bárbara Vidal—in all its 32 rooms and communal spaces. On relaxed Formentera, the recently opened Casa Pacha (casapacha.com) has stylish retro interiors by Patricia Galden Studio and statement decorative objects from local artisans. Meanwhile on the hard-partying isle, the Six Senses Ibiza (sixsenses.com) will feature farm-to-table dining, music, art, wellness, and sustainable fashion, as the Balearics' first BREEAM-certified resort. [2022's debuts—El Vicenç de la Mar \(\[elvicenc.com\]\(http://elvicenc.com\)\)](#) and the Kimpton Hotel Santa Ponsa (ihg.com), both in Mallorca—are bound to have unique draws of their own. MARIANNA CERINI

