Dreaming about a European beach vacation? With a slew of new postcard-perfect luxury hotels poised to open across the Mediterranean, 2022 will have you spoiled for choice.

Here are the nine hottest new Mediterranean hotels slated to open this year, from Mallorca to Mykonos and Capri to Tel Aviv.

El Vicenç de la Mar, Mallorca

Opening in April, the team behind Mallorca's superb El Llorenç Parc de la Mar boutique hotel brings you its newest venture, El Vicenç de la Mar. Whereas El Llorenç is set in the old town of Palma de Mallorca, El Vicenç boasts an enviable beachfront location in Cala Molins, on Mallorca's northern coastline, with its azure waters and dramatic views of the Tramuntana mountains. It has two restaurants, a multi-tiered rooftop terrace, a 24-seat cinema and 35 rooms, including five suites, some of which have private terraces, private jacuzzis or even a private swimming pool.
